GameFor App Supports International Tabletop Day 2018 Events

April 9, 2018 - GameFor is pleased to announce app support for Geek & Sundry's International Tabletop Day 2018, held this year on Saturday, April 28, 2018. Players and stores will be able to select special graphics and features to mark their events as International Tabletop Day events in the GameFor app, opening the door for more people to discover these events.

"We had several conversations with the folks at Geek & Sundry that head up International Tabletop Day about what we could do to work with them on this year's event," Adam Loper, GameFor Director of Design and Marketing said, "and we quickly deployed features that allow anyone to hold events that will stand out as special events on April 28th of this year."

GameFor users and verified stores will be able to tag events created on April 28th as International Tabletop Day 2018 events, allowing other people in the app to see these special events and bring more players together on this special day.

Founded in 2013, International Tabletop Day is an annual event held in more than 80 countries to celebrate the growing hobby of tabletop gaming. More information can be found at <https://www.tabletopday.com>.

GameFor is a platform for tabletop gaming enthusiasts to discover gaming events and stores in their area. The GameFor mobile app is currently available for tabletop gamers worldwide on iOS and Android mobile platforms. More information can be found at <https://www.iamgamefor.com>.
